

Book Swap Game Cards

Cut on the borders. Draw a card. Passing is always welcome.

01

Describe the mood of your book using three everyday words.

02

Who might enjoy this book even if they usually avoid its genre?

03

Name a setting detail that makes this book feel distinctive.

04

What would you tell a reader about the pace before they begin?

05

Which reading situation suits this book: commute, holiday, or quiet evening?

06

Explain what drew you to this book without revealing the ending.

07

What should someone know about this edition or its condition?

08

Give your book a shelf label that says more than its genre.

Book Swap Game Cards

Cut on the borders. Draw a card. Passing is always welcome.

09

What kind of reader would you gently steer toward a different book?

10

Describe the writing style without comparing it to another author.

11

What question might a new reader carry into the opening chapter?

12

Which season or kind of weather fits the feeling of this book?

13

What is one honest limitation of your recommendation?

14

Does this book reward short reading sessions or longer stretches?

15

Name a topic this book could start a conversation about.

16

What expectation should a reader leave behind before starting?

Book Swap Game Cards

Cut on the borders. Draw a card. Passing is always welcome.

17

Pitch the book to someone who knows nothing about its subject.

18

Which matters most here: voice, setting, ideas, or plot? Explain.

19

What makes this a book to pass along rather than leave on a shelf?

20

How much attention does the opening ask from the reader?

21

What spoiler-free detail could help someone choose this book?

22

If your book were a place to visit, what would it feel like?

23

What content or format note would help someone make a comfortable choice?

24

Invite one question about your book that you can answer without spoilers.

